

NO. 56. CRANBERRY HALL 88 Charles St.
 Jerome Jennings' cranberry packing house, originally a 2-story building, was built circa 1870. Empty barrels were stored upstairs before the second level was removed. It is thought that Charles Street was named by Jerome Jennings for one of his sons.

The township made renovations to the building in the late 1960s. A fire-damaged church in Pointville near Fort Dix donated ten oak pews used for seating.

Cranberry Hall is currently the home of the Medford Department of Recreation. It is also used for public meetings and for small weddings.

NO. 57. FILBERT STREET SCHOOL Filbert St. near Church St.
 The Filbert Street School opened in 1876. Enrollment in the 1880s averaged 175 students in grades one to six. The Filbert Street School closed in December 1927.

NO. 58. FIRST HOUSE ON FILBERT 17 Filbert St.
 The original portion of this 2-1/2-story, 2-bay clapboard home was built in 1842 by Mahlon Reeve. The Mickle family purchased it in 1874. A bay window was added onto the south side in 1875. The front porch was likely added at that same time.

NO. 49. THE METHODIST CHURCH CEMETERY Branch St.
 The oldest legible gravestone marker, that of Achsail Conner, is dated 1836. Several ministers of the adjacent Methodist Episcopal Church are buried here, the earliest being Reverend James Moore who died in 1842.

NO. 48. THE OLDEST HOUSE ON BRANCH ST. 47 Branch St.
 Dating from circa 1815, this small home of salt-box design was the first house on Branch Street. It was built by Henry Stackhouse for his son, Harry.

NO. 47. THE STACY PRICKETT HOUSE 22 Branch St.
 In 1830, this 2-1/2-story, 3-bay, Federal-style brick home was constructed for Stacy Prickett. The granite foundations are two-foot thick and most of the framing is four-inch square timbers made of oak. The iron hitching posts are from the 1890s and the walkways are thought to be the only original slate sidewalks still existing in Medford.

NO. 46. MILTON ALLEN'S SCHOOL 19 Branch St.
 Built circa 1860, this 2-1/2-story, 5-bay central hall Victorian home was originally a single residence. Later it was divided into a

NO. 32. The ALBERT KIRBY HOUSE 89 N. Main St.
 This home was built in 1908 by Aaron Darnell on a lot that he purchased for $630. Albert and Anna Kirby lived here from 1925 to 1952.

Albert operated the Kirby Brothers feed store on North Main Street. For many years Albert was Sunday School superintendent and a trustee at the Methodist Church.

NO. 43. THE JOSEPH ALLEN HOUSE 58 N. Main St.
 This late Victorian house was built by Joseph Allen in 1896 on a lot purchased from Mark Reeve. It was the first home in Medford to have indoor plumbing and a bathroom. When the building was renovated for a funeral home in 1957, care was taken to maintain its historical integrity. All furnishings on the first floor are Victorian antiques.

NO. 44. THE WEEKS-BOWKER HOUSE 56 N. Main St.
 Joseph Bowker built his 2-1/2-story Queen Anne-style home in 1876 on a lot for which he paid $300. A 2-story bay window is located on the left side of the front and a 3-story tower is on the north wall. Eleanor Rush was a boarder here in 1916 during her first year of teaching at the one-room Brace Road School.

NO. 45. THE DR. JOSIAH REEVE HOUSE 50 N. Main St.
 This 2-1/2-story Victorian house was built by Dr. Josiah Reeve in 1876. He practiced medicine with his uncle, Dr. Henry P. Ely, who lived two doors south in Ely Hall, the large brick house at the corner of Main and Cedar Streets.

NO. 35. ELY HALL 40 N. Main St.
 This center hall, 5-bay Greek Revival-style brick home was built in 1844 by Dr. Henry P. Ely. The 1982 Heritage Studies Survey states that this well maintained and landscaped house is a landmark presence in Medford Village.

NO. 37. THE INDIAN CHIEF TAVERN 1 N. Main St.
 Richard Reeve constructed this 3-story, 5-bay, frame hotel with a flat roof in 1810. Tavern operator Samuel Hartman chose the name because it was built on the site of a Lenape chief's lodge. After two railroad lines came to Medford in 1869 and 1900, the hotel served large numbers of

NO. 40. THE OWEN STRATTON HOUSE 60 S. Main St.
 Owen Stratton, a Quaker, purchased this 2-1/2-story, gable-roofed frame home circa 1835 in order to be closer to the Friends Meeting House on Union St. The home has five bays with a center door on the first floor and three bays on the second level.

NO. 24. THE STRATTON/BRADDOCK HOUSE 70 S. Main St.
 This 2-1/2-story, 5-bay, center-hall house is thought to have been the home of Mark Stratton, who died in 1759, making it one of the earliest homes in Medford Village. This home was listed in 1982 by the Heritage Studies Survey as a Key Building, because of its value to the historical character of Medford Village.

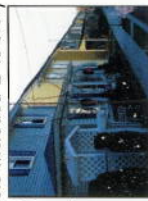

NO. 41. THE DR. R. S. BRADDOCK HOUSE 100 S. Main St.
 This large farmhouse was built circa 1840. Dr. Braddock became the owner in 1875. He practiced medicine here for the next 25 years. The 1880 census lists four persons in his household: Richard Braddock, Physician; Emma F., Wife, Keeping House; Chas. H. Bishop, Laborer; and Sarah Stockton, Servant. James and Mary Harriett of Brooklyn, NY, purchased the property in 1908 for $2150. The home was divided into a duplex after World War I. Restorations include conversion back to a single dwelling.

NO. 7. BRADDOCK'S LANDING 20 Mill St.
 In the 1700s waterways were used instead of roads to transport goods. This site was the beginning of navigation on the southwest branch of the Rancocas Creek when it was much deeper and wider than it is today. Barges headed to places such as Philadelphia from this site loaded with cargo such as charcoal and glassworks.

NO. 50. GLASSWORKERS' HOMES S. Main St. and Trimble St.
 The 22 workers' houses on Trimble and Mill Streets included 2-1/2-story duplexes, 2-story singles and 1-1/2-story cottages close to the nearby swamps (now Medford Park.) Historical records from the late 1800s show that monthly rent was $1.50 for a house on Mill St. and $5.00 to $6.00 for a house on Trimble.

NO. 17. STAR GLASS WORKS S. Main St.
 One of Medford's best known industries was the glassworks that operated under various names for nearly 90 years. It began in 1825, and was called Medford Glass, which was followed in 1887 by Star Glass which prospered for 35 years, and eventually closed due to a union dispute.
